Monday 7, October 2024

Dili, Timor-Leste – The Autoridade Nacional do Petróleo I.P. (ANP) is pleased to announce the hosting of a launch event for its new National Library Project, scheduled for Monday 7, October at 3:00 PM at the ANP office in City 8 Compound. This initiative marks a significant step in promoting education and literacy within the community.

Established by Decree Law No. 62/2023, the ANP plays a crucial role in managing and regulating petroleum activities in Timor-Leste, including both offshore and onshore operations. The institution is dedicated to ensuring responsible resource management and is now expanding its focus to include vital community projects such as the National Library.

The National Library Project in Kitan (JPDA 06-105), funded by Eni Timor-Leste and the Government of Timor-Leste through the Secretary of State for Arts and Culture (SEAC), aims to enhance the National Library Complex in Hudi Laran, Dili. Managed by ANP, the project encompasses comprehensive engineering design, construction, and fit-out, ultimately providing the community with free access to a wealth of information through books and digital media.

This library will serve as a cornerstone for education and cultural engagement, acting as a hub for students, researchers, and the public. Its mission is to foster a love for reading and lifelong learning by providing a wide array of resources and programs tailored to a diverse spectrum of interests and age groups.

Special programs and workshops will be organized to ensure that the library engages the community effectively, allowing for feedback and involvement that reflect the diverse needs and aspirations of the people. ANP, SEAC and Eni is committed to making access to information a fundamental right, working towards a future where everyone can expand their horizons.
